RENDINA COMPANIES® ANNOUNCES
THE APPOINTMENT OF JANET S. HOLLAND AND OPENING OF NEW OFFICE IN DALLAS, TEXAS

Jupiter, Florida – (January 20, 2010) Rendina Companies, one of the nation’s leading full-service medical real estate development companies, is pleased to announce the appointment of Janet S. Holland as Senior Vice President of Business Development. Ms. Holland will be based in the firm’s newly established Dallas, Texas office and will be responsible for establishing and cultivating relationships with hospitals and health systems throughout the country.

Ms. Holland has served in various healthcare business development, operations and marketing capacities for the past 15 years. Most recently, she was President and Principal of OnPoint Strategies, LLC, a healthcare business development and marketing firm providing services to clients in the healthcare provider and medical real estate industries. Previously, she served as Vice President of Development for Alliance Surgery, Inc., where she directed the company’s business development initiatives for projects in Georgia, Florida, New York and Texas. Ms. Holland also served as Vice President of Operations and Corporate Development for HealthSouth Corporation. During her tenure at HealthSouth, Ms. Holland was responsible for identifying new business opportunities, expanding existing services, leading new project development and identifying start-up and merger opportunities in key markets. Prior to joining HealthSouth, Ms. Holland spent five years at Tenet Healthcare, where her responsibilities included business development, healthcare operations and strategic business planning.

Ms. Holland graduated from Southern Methodist University with a Bachelor of Business Administration, cum laude. She also holds Master of Science in Health Administration and Master of Business Administration degrees from the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

“We are very excited to welcome Ms. Holland to our team,” stated Richard M. Rendina, Chairman and CEO of Rendina Companies. “Her extensive background in various facets of healthcare delivery brings not only a unique understanding of the healthcare industry, but it also creates a great platform to continue forging strong relationships with many of the nation’s leading healthcare providers.”

“Janet will play an integral role in our aggressive growth strategy and continued national expansion. She is a great addition to our business development team and brings a lot of healthcare knowledge and experience,” stated Todd H. Varney, Executive Vice President – Marketing and Business Development.

Regarding the opening of the new Dallas office, Mr. Rendina added, “As a national real estate development firm, the opening of a Dallas office is a key component of our continued success at a time when other developers are struggling.”
